Welcome to the Confucius Institute at Mason. We are a partnership between George Mason University, the Beijing Language and Culture University, and The Office of Chinese Language Council International of the Chinese Ministry of Education (Hanban).

The Confucius Institute at Mason is committed to sharing knowledge to all who wish to learn about Chinese language and culture and building bridges between cultures.

The Confucius Institute at Mason assists students and teachers in K-12 schools, the business community, and George Mason University by offering:

CHINESE LANGUAGE AND CULTURE CLASSES

Teachers from China teach short-term, non-credit Chinese courses for beginners, intermediate, and advanced levels. Customized language/culture courses can also be contracted for area businesses.

CULTURAL ACTIVITIES

The Confucius Institute at Mason organizes and sponsors high impact cultural events on campus or in the community highlighting Chinese culture, artists, and performers.

K-12 SCHOOLS OUTREACH

We can work with teachers to design and implement age appropriate activities and projects that will increase young people's interest in learning about China and Chinese.

STUDY ABROAD IN CHINA

Confucius Institute Scholarship recipients are eligible to study in China. Each year, Hanban also invites high school students, teachers, and school educators/administrators to China for summer exchange.

CHINESE LANGUAGE AND CULTURE MATERIALS

The Confucius Institute at Mason's reading room has instructional, cultural, historical, and reference multi-media and print materials on Chinese language and culture. Please check our web site for reading room hours.

HSK TESTING

HSK is a standardized international Chinese language proficiency test for non-native Chinese speakers. Each year, several tests are held at the Confucius Institute at Mason.

SCHOLARSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

The Confucius Institute Scholarship was established to encourage students and teachers worldwide to study Chinese language and culture in China.

TEACHER TRAINING

To support the quality of Chinese teaching, teacher training programs are organized for pre- and in-service Chinese language teachers in K-12 private and public schools and teachers in higher education.
